Radical Self-Care - Tiffany S. Clemmings, LMSW
Climate organizing, social justice, political awareness and ever-changing trends. How do we even keep up with it all, much less remember to give ourselves time to breathe and grow? How do we take care of ourselves while trying to take on the world? Conversations, mindfulness exercises and real-life practices around radical self-care will be shared in this break out group.

Location: Roosevelt Room

LGBTQ+ Justice in Faith Communities - Kate Akerman
Sisters, brothers, and non-binary siblings in Christ are all made in the divine image of God. The Episcopal Church has recognized and affirmed queer Christians for decades now, but that doesn't mean it's time to get complacent. This group will share thoughts on areas for growth in development in how our own communities support LGBTQ+ persons of faith.

We Will Change the World: Youth Climate Organizing in NY State - Ryan Madden
Youth across the globe are leading the charge for bold climate action. Frontline youth from environmental justice communities along with youth-led organizations like Sunrise Movement, Zero Hour, Youth Climate Strike, and more are organizing, educating, and striking in order to raise the alarm on the climate crisis. In 2019, New York State passed the world's most ambitious piece of climate legislation - the Climate Leadership and Community Protection Act - which sets NY on a path to a 100% renewable energy economy by 2050. Youth played an important role in getting this bill passed and will be critical in helping make it a reality. This session will discuss NY State’s groundbreaking climate law and engage attendees about their opportunity to shape our energy future together to ensure a Just Transition for our communities.

Location: Nassau/Suffolk Room

Be an Agent of Change! - Angel Reyes
In this interactive workshop, Youth Delegates will learn about social change and how to be an ally to the immigration movement on Long Island.
